Nāgārjuna's Guide to the Bodhisattva Path is a classic Buddhist text that provides a comprehensive guide to the path of the bodhisattva, one who seeks to achieve enlightenment for the benefit of all beings. Written by the renowned Indian philosopher and scholar Nāgārjuna in the 2nd century CE, the text has been revered by Buddhists for centuries as a profound and authoritative guide to the bodhisattva path.

The text consists of seven chapters, each of which explores a different aspect of the bodhisattva path. The first chapter introduces the concept of the bodhisattva and discusses the motivations and qualities of those who aspire to follow this path. The second chapter explores the nature of compassion and its role in the bodhisattva's life. The third chapter discusses the practice of meditation and how it can help the bodhisattva to develop the necessary qualities of mind.

The fourth chapter explores the bodhisattva's relationship to the world and how they can best serve others. The fifth chapter discusses the importance of wisdom and how it can guide the bodhisattva on their path. The sixth chapter explores the nature of emptiness and how it can lead to the realization of enlightenment. The seventh chapter concludes the text with a discussion of the bodhisattva's ultimate goal, the attainment of buddhahood.

Nāgārjuna's Guide to the Bodhisattva Path is a profound and insightful text that offers a wealth of guidance for those who seek to follow the bodhisattva path. It is a valuable resource for both new and experienced Buddhists alike, and it is sure to inspire and guide all who read it.
